Objective

My overall goal is to acquire the necessary (and even the unnecessary) knowledge to start my own business in the future, and to become a great programmer. I strive to learn more and more every day. I often find that I enjoy learning more than I need to, and in many more fields than I need to. I like to be diverse and be able to do a variety of different things on my own. I thoroughly enjoy learning, even in my free time, and especially in programming. I strive to acquire the necessary skillsets to become successful in programming and am also interested in and learning mobile app development, and web development in my free time.
